1.0 Foreword

The HSE has the statutory function of providing Health and Social Care services for people with disabilities (Health Act 2004). The HSE discharges this function through the direct provision of services for people with disabilities and through funding both Voluntary and For Profit Service Providers to provide these services on behalf of the HSE. The HSE fully acknowledges its responsibilities in providing leadership, guidance and support in striving towards best practice in the delivery of services for persons with a disability. Thus the development of this framework and the attached resources have been developed to support all service providers in ensuring good governance structures are in place to deliver on high quality and safe services.

To provide high quality and safe services for people with intellectual disabilities, the need to have robust governance arrangements in place for the management of the services has been well acknowledged in the international literature. The Quality Improvement Division of the HSE has done significant work in providing guidance for the Health Sector on developing Clinical Governance. However effective governance arrangements still remains a significant issue within HSE provided and funded Residential Intellectual Disability Services as evidenced by HIQA reports since regulation of the Sector came into place in November 2013.

The National Social Care Division Quality and Safety committee commissioned a National Subgroup to develop clear guidance specific to Disability Services on the type of Governance Structure that should be put in place to develop and support high quality, safe services that will meet standards and regulations as set out in the Health Act 2007 (Regulations 2013).¹

In 2016 this subgroup was convened and included members with background and experience including Human Resources, Service managers, Quality Improvement and Family Representation. Please see Appendix 3 for membership of this group.

2.0 Purpose

This Framework, guidance notes and supporting documents and tools will support services in both recognising their responsibilities as a service provider and equally understanding the unique nature of providing residential services for people with disabilities. Supporting a person to live a life of their choosing while being supported by services, twenty four hours a day, seven days a week, will always have the challenge of providing safe services but ensuring people are being supported to live a life of their choosing which will sometimes involve positive risk taking within a culture of “keeping people safe”. Furthermore, good governance will assist in ongoing quality improvements within all the services to ensure that the HSE continue to strive for the best possible life for the people living in Intellectual Disability residential services.

Governance for Quality and Safety is a framework through which healthcare/social care teams are accountable for the quality, safety and experience of people in the care they deliver. For health and social care staff, this means specifying the standards they are going to deliver and which should have measurable quality of life improvements for persons with disabilities.

Governance for quality and safety is an integral component of governance arrangements where:

- Each individual, as part of a team, knows the purpose and function of leadership and accountability for good health and social care.
- Each individual, as part of a team, knows their responsibility, level of authority and to whom they are accountable.
- Each individual, as part of a team, understands how the principles of quality and safety can be applied in their diverse practice.
- A culture of trust, openness, respect and caring is evident among managers, staff and residents.
- Each individual, as part of a team, consistently demonstrates a commitment to the principles of quality and safety in decision-making.
- Quality and safety is embedded within the overall corporate governance arrangement for the statutory and voluntary health and personal social services in realising improved outcomes for service users.

3.0 Scope

This Framework and supporting resources have been developed to support HSE Intellectual Disability (ID) residential services in establishing robust governance structures within the overall management structures within the HSE and specifically within each CHO. It is the intention that this Framework will be adopted by all HSE ID directly provided residential Services. It is furthermore the intention that this framework will be adopted by HSE funded services, both Section 38 and Section 39 services. However, it is acknowledged that these organisations may have different internal structures for the governance of their residential services and in those circumstances, it may be more appropriate to self assess the service using the Governance and Leadership checklist and then put in place any actions required to ensure the service is fully compliant with this Framework.

While this Framework has been designed specifically for persons with Intellectual Disability living in Residential Services, it is intended that it can also be adapted for use in Residential Services for people with Physical and Sensory Disabilities.

It is outside the scope of this Framework to consider relationships between Residential services and Day services

4.0 Assumptions

Residential services for people with intellectual disabilities are delivered across all CHOs through a combination of HSE directly providing services and HSE funded service providers to provide services on their behalf. The range and complexity of services vary hugely across the country where there are still a number of congregated settings to one person living in a house. The number of Services, Designated Centres and Management Structures vary all across the country. For the purposes of this framework, the following assumptions have been made:

- A Designated Centre will be supporting no more than 20 people across a variety of settings.
- There will be a Full Time Person in Charge per Designated Centre.
- A number of Designated Centres can be managed through one Governance Structure. This is called an “Allocated Service”.
- There will be a Director of Services managing an Allocated Service who will be the Provider Nominee for all the Designated Centres within the Allocated Service.
- There will be a Governance Structure in place for each Allocated Service that reports to the Head of Social Care within each CHO Area.
- In the event that there are HSE provided day services in the area, consideration will need to be given to the management of these and how these day services will interact with the Residential Services.

5.0 Principles

The guiding principles underpinning the delivery of service and supports through a good governance structure, for adults with Intellectual disabilities, are set out as follows:

1. Person Centredness
2. Positive Risk taking
3. Self-determination - being supported to live a life on one’s own terms
4. Friendships, Relationships - meaningful and freely chosen
5. Inclusion
6. Equity
7. Equal citizenship

The implementation of a robust governance structure to meet the identified needs of the residents will support the service in meeting Standards and Regulations as set out in the Health Act 2007 (Regulations 2013), but a value based culture developed by the service, underpinned by the above principles will support the service to continually strive to provide individualised services in line with the Will and Preference of the resident.

The premise of this structure is that it devolves responsibility and decision making ability to the closest level possible to the resident but provides oversight to ensure that decisions are being made in line with national standards to ensure good practice and that Due Process is being followed.

In line with the underpinning principles of the governance structure, it is the expectation that, where possible, management meetings will be held in a Designated Centre (with the consent of the residents living there) within the Allocated Service. Meetings can be rotated among the Designated Centres with residents in each house invited to attend to update on house meetings/resident forums, where appropriate. While this may pose logistical challenges, it will provide visible, transparent and person centred governance which can be replicated across all aspects of the service.

6.0 Guidance on the Governance Structure

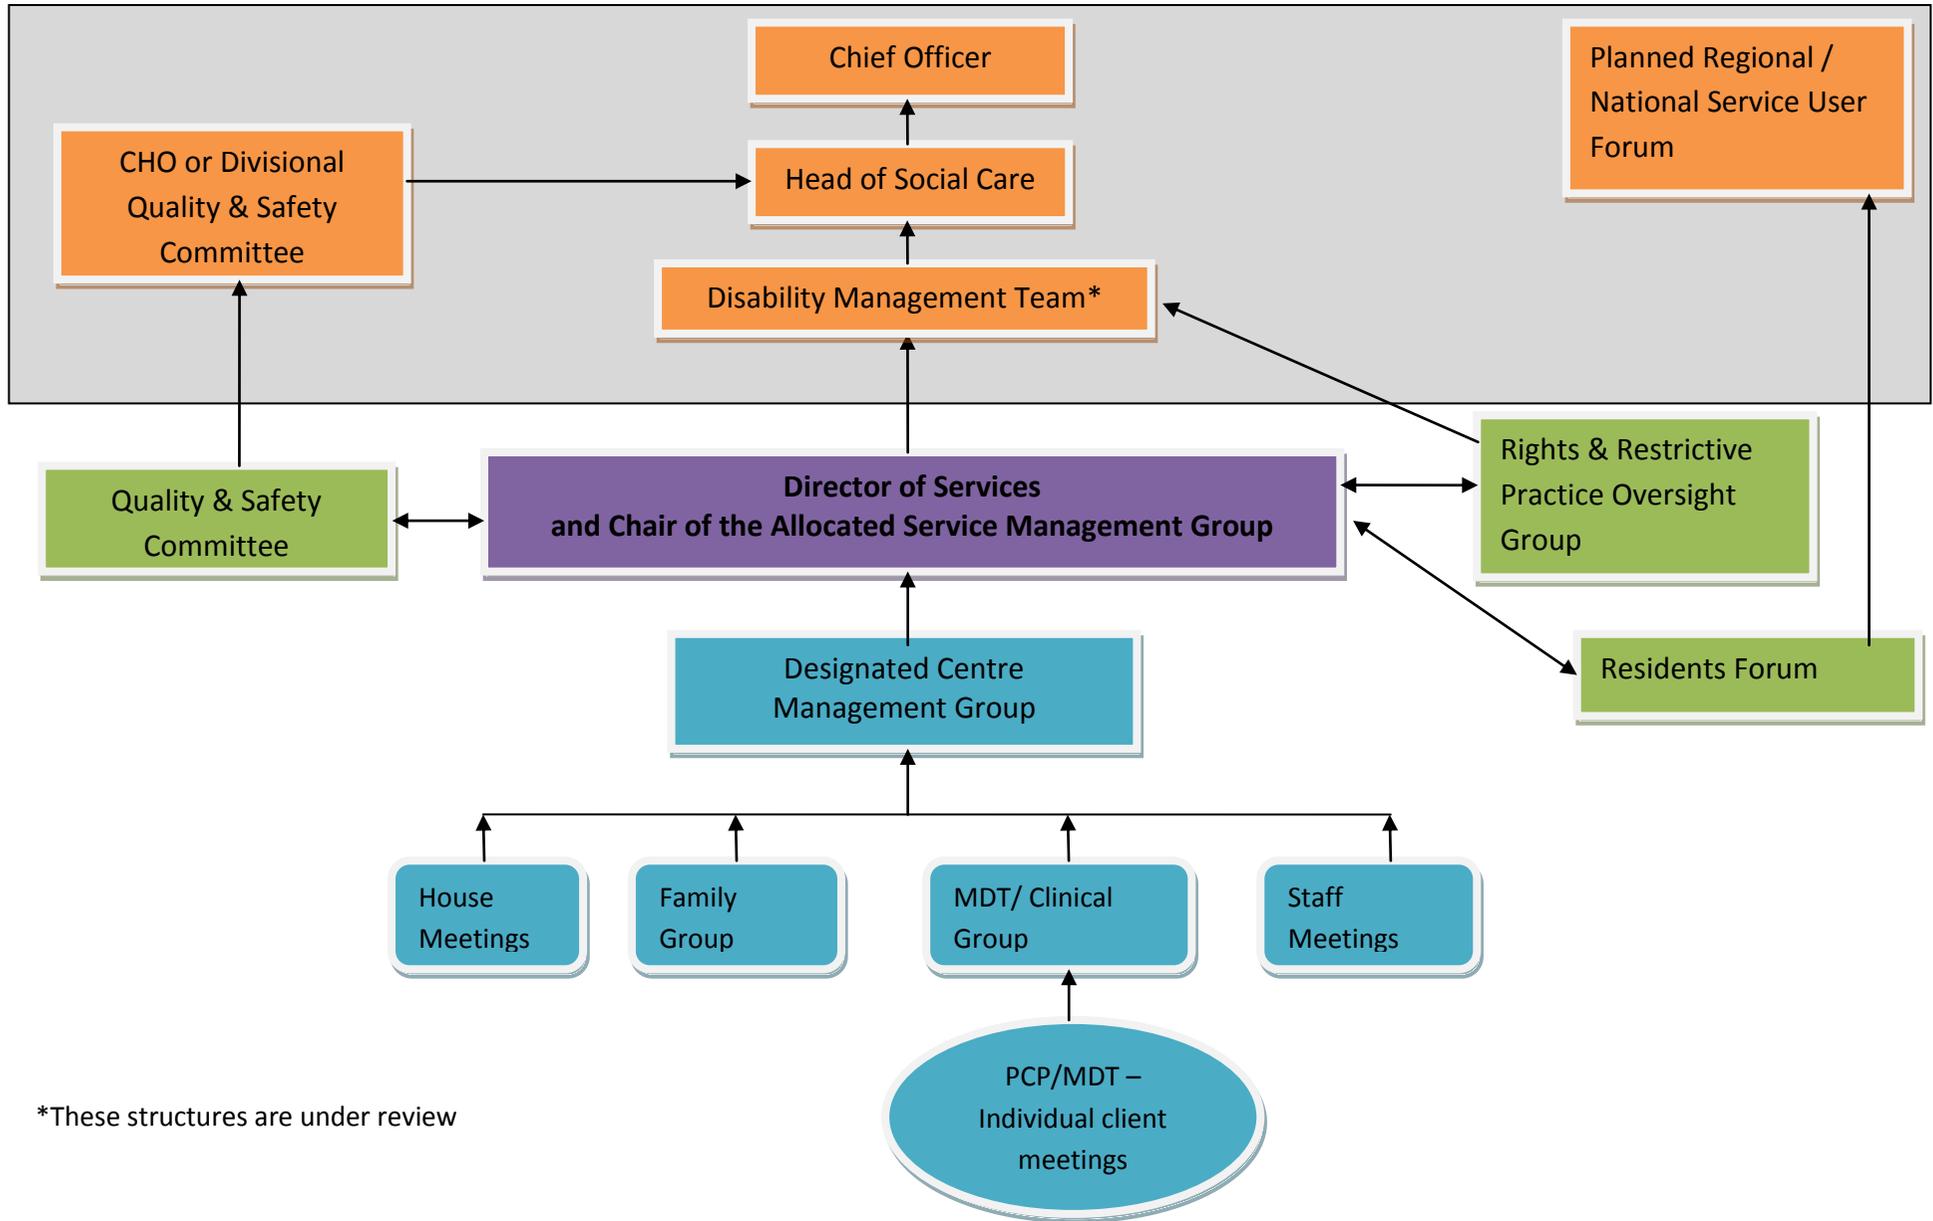

The National Social Care Division recognises the divergence of services in each CHO area so has provided flexibility within the structure to accommodate this. The structure contained within this document is the core structure recommended which will ensure the service is providing good governance and leadership that will support residents to live meaningful lives of their choosing.

The core structure is the minimum governance structure required but based on the level of services in the area, different approaches may be required, i.e.

- a) Setting up specific working groups in response to an identified need which requires a targeted response, such as an Incident and Complaints Review Group.
- b) As part of quality improvement projects in a specific area such as Person Centred Planning, a working group may be established.
- c) Where there is only one Designated Centre within an Allocated Centre, there will only be a need for one Management Group.
- d) In situations where a Designated Centre comprises of only one house with 3 to 4 residents, it may be appropriate to create a “Cluster” of single Designated Centres and substitute the Designated Centre Management Structure as a Cluster management structure.
- e) Combining the Terms of Reference of the Allocated Service Management Group and the MDT/Clinical Group. The functions of these groups could be standing agenda items on the Allocated Service Management Group. Careful management of the agenda would need to happen to ensure that all the items on the agenda get the appropriate time.
- f) Scheduling the meetings immediately after each other may assist in time management.

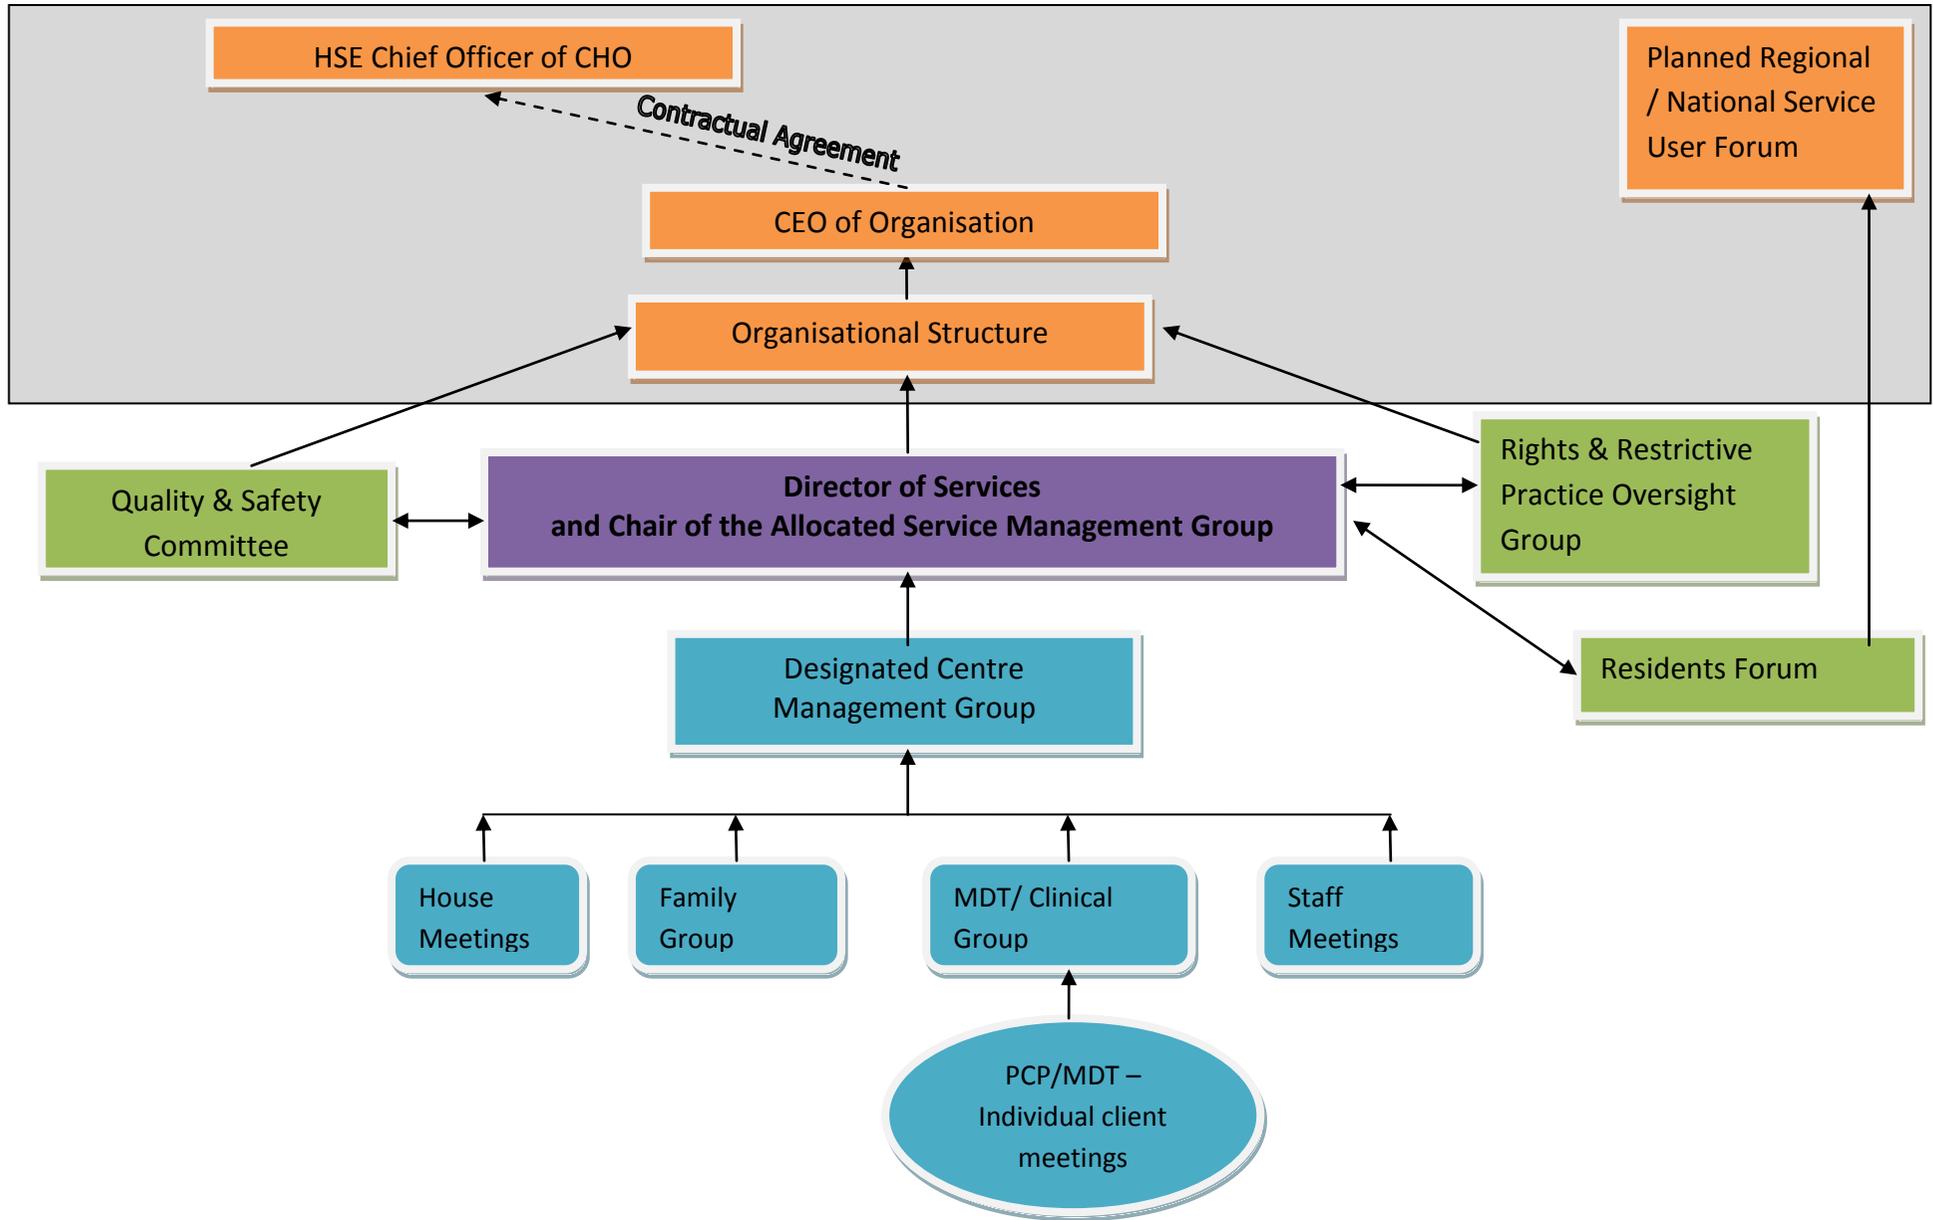

To assist you in setting up the Governance structure for your service, please see Appendix 1 – Governance and Leadership checklist. This document will provide you with an opportunity to consider the key components required for good governance and leadership, to ensure that quality improvement remains an integral part of your service and there is an ongoing focus on meeting the Will and Preference of every resident being supported within your service.

9.0 Support

To support the implementation of this governance structure a number of resources have been developed as follows:

Table 1: The list of groups that will need to be set up within your service with an outline of the purpose of each group. As part of the Governance Resource Pack, terms of reference have been developed for each of these groups.

Please note: that services may have to adapt this structure and the Terms of Reference of the various groups to suit their individual service. However, it is very important to ensure that the work of each group is carried out somewhere within the service and it all feeds into the overall management of the service.

Table 2: Details of all the additional resources developed to support this Framework. These will all be contained in the Governance Structure Framework Resource Pack.

Also see Appendix 2 for list of resources.

10.0 Conclusion

The National Social Care Division (SCD) remains committed to supporting people within HSE Residential Services for people with Intellectual Disabilities, to live full and active lives within their local communities that reflects the Will and Preference of the individual.

The National SCD recognises the challenges posed by this through the learning gained through HIQA inspections and reviews carried out, such as the Time for Action² report, July 2016 on HSE provided services.

The HSE recognises the requirement to provide national guidance and leadership in supporting the services to engage in a process of service improvement that is underpinned by the principles outlined above including person centredness, inclusion and equity.

The National SCD has already embarked on a number of initiatives to support services which includes; rolling out training in Person Centredness, the establishment of National Subgroups to develop guidance on a number of common issues throughout HSE Intellectual Disability Residential services, such as risk management and medication management.

A project team arising out of a partnership between the Quality Improvement Division and the Social Care Division continues to provide supports to services engaging with quality improvement.

The rollout of a Governance Structure is an important step in preparing services for ongoing quality improvement in all areas of service as the HSE continues to strive to deliver quality services that reflect the Will and Preference of the people that we support.

How to use Governance and Leadership Checklist

This checklist should be used in conjunction with the Governance Structures Residential Services for People with Intellectual Disabilities Framework.

The series of practical statements are grouped under the 6 drivers for improving quality as outlined in the HSE Framework for Improving Quality in our Health Service (2016).

Each statement should be discussed and answered at the Allocated Service Management Meeting.

The statements describe the structures and processes required under the Governance and Leadership structures and asks for evidence of them.

In preparation for completing the check, reference should be made to the principles for clinical governance development and the matrix (see www.hse.ie/go/clinicalgovernance) that underpin the clinical governance assurance check.

For each section:

- Answer Yes or No to the questions provided.

Where a statement is checked as 'structure/process established and working effectively',

The next question to be answered is:

- How do we know? And
- Where is the evidence that the structure/processes are in place and effective?

Where a statement is checked as 'structure/process under development' or 'no structure/process in place for this'

The next step is to:

- Complete the action plan
